All of our young bare root plants are British grown stock. When quality is important, plant superior British grown stock.

Also available all year round as container grown.

For more information on our planting sundries please see our Materials price list.

Fertilisers

Even if your soil isn't of poor quality, to help plants get off to a good start, add a slow release fertilizer to your topsoil when you backfill your planting hole. This enables your plant to find the nutrients it needs quickly and growth will be vigorous. We also recommend the use of Rootgrow, friendly mycorrhizal fungi, that encourages a secondary root system to improve plant growth.

Planting Sundries

We have a fully inclusive range of planting sundries and landscape materials designed to aid any planting scheme including tree stakes, ties and a range of growing/planting media.

Our products are quality, trusted brands used by ourselves.

Deer & Rabbit Protection

If you have a wild deer/rabbit problem it is essential to protect your plants, particularly during their early establishment. We recommend using the correct protection for each plant either spirals or shrub guards and will happily advise you on this.

Irrigation

Newly planted shrubs and hedging should be irrigated carefully. Watering during establishment is beneficial for root and plant growth. However, over watering (water logging) is wasteful and often leading to slower root growth, root death and leaching of nutrients from the soil. You may consider installing a simple irrigation system and we can advise you on your requirements.

Mulch Matters

It is essential that during the first growing seasons you keep the ground clear of grass and weeds as weeds can suppress growth by up to 40%. For individual plants use Mulch Mats, or for whole beds use bark or composted eco green mulches.

Other Info

Delivery is available anywhere in the UK for an additional charge.

We offer specialist planting advice, or within East Anglia, we can provide a full planting service with maintenance and aftercare included.

As experts we offer comprehensive advice on trees and hedging and would be pleased to help discuss the design and specification for any planting scheme that you may be undertaking.
